¶ An interesting set of Kipling proofs—which rarely appear for sale. Against one passage, in which the P. and O. are subjected to satirical criticism, and which it was suggested might be regarded as actionable, there is a note by Kipling (initialled "R. K.") to the effect that he regards the paragraph as "fair comment on a matter of public interest." At the head of the article are three verses which were omitted in this serial form of publication, and one of which has a noticeable alteration—"done and finished," for "damn well finished."

- 160 Kipling (R.) Author's Second Corrected Galley Proofs of "Young Men at the Manor" ("Puck of Pook's Hill"), as it appeared in the "Ladies' Home Journal," Feb. 1906, WITH MS. CORRECTIONS AND A FEW ALTERATIONS, INITIALLED "R. K.," bound up in the same size and style as the preceding

- 161 Kipling (R.) The Light that Failed, cr. 8vo, original wrapper

New York: The National Publishing Company 1890

¶ A very rare and apparently the earliest printed form of "The Light that Failed," published in "The Red Letter Series of Select Fiction," No. 78, and issued (see date on title-page) December 27, 1890. Heretofore the appearance of the story in Lippincott's Magazine for January, 1891, has been regarded as the earliest, and there is no mention of the above in Captain Martindell's exhaustive Bibliography.
